

Picture: Plane Production Line

There were many who said this wasn't possible. But here it is—bombers moving along a production line in the North American plant in Dallas. Thus assembled as autos once were, the planes are built in tens of thousands against a few hundred not many months ago. Big ships move backward on this line for greater working convenience.

Committee Votes to Boost Individual's Tax One Per Centum

New Rates on Incomes Will Increase Yield of Income Tax

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—An eleventh-hour decision to boost the average individual's income taxes another one per cent to almost double the present rates put the yield of the house ways and means committee's new revenue bill above $6,000,000,000 today.

Members worked to finish writing the bill before nightfall. It has been the subject of weeks of hearings and, when completed, will be headed for more weeks of congressional debate.

At an unusual night session last night, the committee adopted a motion to add 1 per cent to the new surtax graduated scale of from 12 per cent on the first $2,000 of personal net income to 81 per cent above $5,000,000. Present rates are from 6 to 77 per cent.

Thus, with a 6 per cent normal tax, compared with the present 4, the committee's new combined rate would be increased from 10 per cent to 19 per cent in the lowest bracket.

Picks Up $310,000,000

By its action, the committee picked up $310,000,000 in additional revenue. But that addition was offset to the extent of $85,000,000 by another vote to retain the personal exemptions in the present law for soldiers and sailors. The committee previously had decided to lower the single person's exemption from $750 to $500 and for married couples from $1,500 to $1,200.

It was reported that Rep. Treadway (R-Mass.) had made the motion to increase the individual surtax rates and coupled with it a proposal to change the single person's income tax exemption from $500 to $600. One member demanded that the two questions be separated and Treadway finally withdrew the latter suggestion.

Little Loafing in U. S. on July 4th

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—America didn't loaf on the Fourth of July.

Figures on electric power consumption, showing a high level of production on Independence Day, brought from Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production Board a statement of thanks for the willingness of industry and labor to "stay on the job".

The power consumed last week was only about 70,000,000 kilowatt hours below the week preceding, as compared with a decrease of 225 to 250 million kilowatt hours in the Fourth of July week in the three years preceding. The figures were supplied to Nelson by C. W. Kellogg, president of the Edison Electric Institute.

Kellogg said the usage was "especially striking" in view of the fact that power consumption figures show Christmas and the Fourth of July to be the most widely celebrated holidays of the year.

"I want to thank industry and labor for their willingness to stay on the job Independence Day," Nelson's statement said. "That response symbolizes the determination of the American people to work and work hard until the war has been won."

The War Today!

The battle for Egypt patently has developed into a play for position and a race against time by both belligerents to bring up reinforcements and materiel, and the outcome of this conflict, which is a part of Hitler's win-the-war strategy, may easily depend on which side is the quicker with the reserves.

There is a fair amount of mystery regarding this extraordinary combat of the sands, which had been relatively quiet for 10 days until yesterday's pre-dawn flareup because, forsooth, both armies were too fagged out and weakened in equipment to carry on without repairs. However, the way things are going the fight seems likely to blow up in the faces in the near future. Certainly the present position is a package of dynamite.

If the fate of the allied cause didn't depend so heavily on this battle, it would be fascinating to watch the contest of wits between General Sir Claude Auchinleck, the shrewd and capable Scotsman, and Field Marshal Rommel, who perhaps is the greatest tactician of his day. The Scot is maneuvering cannily to trap the crafty Nazi against the Mediterranean coast and hold him there in a pocket while American and British bombers and British submarines try to cut the axis supply lines. Rommel is moving his chessmen to keep his line of retreat open and hang on to his position until fresh equipment arrives.

Rommel's armored right wing originally had rested some thirty-five miles almost due south in the desert, while his left wing lay on the coast. He kept swinging at Auchinleck with that fast-moving armored force, like a prize fighter chopping with his right, hoping to swing the Scotsman back and outflank him—that is, put Auchinleck in the same kind of sack that the latter now is holding open as he punches at Rommel.

But Auchinleck began to show a retaliatory strength which indicated that he was beginning to re-

His Error

Salt Lake City, July 11.—(AP)—A civilian wearing an Army shirt and tie, with metal bars resembling those of a first lieutenant on his shoulders, made an error.

He told two privates "I'll make you corporals tomorrow." They were military police and they made him a prisoner.

The former captain of engineers said that for the moment he had suspended his fight to clear himself because he didn't want to do anything "which would reflect upon the administration and might hurt the war effort."

The aged builder of Savannah, Ga., harbor improvements, convicted of irregularity in handling funds in connection with work there, said that "it is my higher duty to the nation not to bring out the facts that I know in connection with my case at this time".

Carter expressed the hope of retaining health until after the war so he could press his fight then.

Must Get Used to Making Old Things Last, Says Nelson

Heads of WPB Reviews Accomplishments of Industry in War

Detroit, July 11.—(AP)—Americans as individuals are going to have to make old things do, "as we never have done before in all our lives", as the war production effort gets into full swing, in the opinion of Donald M. Nelson, chief of the War Production Board.

Speaking to several hundred representatives of the leading automobile companies last night, the production chief praised achievements of the industry to date, but added that every manufacturer from now on must plan to greater production—with less material—"every single day for many months, perhaps years to come".

Guest of honor at the annual dinner of the Automotive Council for War Production, Nelson said: "From now on the emphasis is on production itself. From what has been done so far I believe we can look at the future with a good deal of confidence".

Nelson urged the manufacturers to plan on a long war. "And

Cinnamon Named Air Raid Warden

A meeting of the Dixon Civilian Defense Council was held last evening at the city hall at which time plans for the completion of the program in the city were formulated. William Cinnamon, member of the fire department, was appointed chief air raid warden to succeed L. Pessink, resigned. Three names were submitted to act on the sugar and rationing boards, which in the near future will operate as separate units.

Plans were also discussed relative to the selection of air raid wardens and fire watchers. The auxiliary fire department is to begin a series of practice runs to all sections of the city and the auxiliary police department is to receive emergency instructions. A city wide system of emergency alarms is to be arranged to warn citizens in the event of air raids or blackouts. Arm bands for the several departments to be worn during practice drills or in emergencies were ordered and will be distributed as soon as received.

Former Army Officer, 86, Suspends Fight to Clear Name for Duration

Chicago, July 11.—(AP)—Oberlin M. Carter, who has fought for more than 40 years to clear his record of a court martial conviction on charges of defrauding the government, reached his 86th birthday today.

The former captain of engineers said that for the moment he had suspended his fight to clear himself because he didn't want to do anything "which would reflect upon the administration and might hurt the war effort."

The aged builder of Savannah, Ga., harbor improvements, convicted of irregularity in handling funds in connection with work there, said that "it is my higher duty to the nation not to bring out the facts that I know in connection with my case at this time".

Carter expressed the hope of retaining health until after the war so he could press his fight then.

Ogle Girl Fatally Hurt in Accident; Three Others Hurt

Betty Glotfelty, 18, of Near Oregon, Victim of Tragedy Friday

Miss Betty Glotfelty, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Glotfelty, who reside about four miles northwest of Oregon, was fatally injured, and three Rockford people were hurt, when the automobile in which they were riding turned turtle on the Pines State park road two miles west of Oregon shortly after 3:00 o'clock Friday afternoon and crashed into a bridge abutment.

The injured, all of whom were badly cut and bruised and taken to the Warmolts clinic in Oregon are John Anthony Chapman, 26, the driver; Robert Mitchell, 24, and Dorothy Wynn, 21, all of Rockford.

One injured previously Chapman and the two girls were rushing Mitchell to Oregon for treatment of a fractured right leg. The four members of the party had spent part of the day at White Pines State park, and Mitchell had suffered a fractured leg while riding near the park.

His leg, protruding from a window of the automobile, was broken when it hit a mailbox.

The automobile went out of control as it rounded a curve on the way to Oregon. It turned over about six times on the blacktop road, struck a concrete bridge rail, and then went into a ditch.

Miss Glotfelty was thrown clear of the car when it struck the culvert. Her skull was crushed. The car came to a stop about 600 feet from the point where it went out of control, according to Deputy Sheriff John D. Wiley of Ogle county, who investigated the accident, and Sheriff James White.

Wiley took Chapman and the Wynn girl to the clinic in an ambulance, while Mitchell was removed to Oregon in the Farrell ambulance.

Inquest continued Attendees at the clinic said one of Chapman's fingers was almost amputated, and that Miss Wynn suffered injuries about her arms and elbows.

Dr. J. C. Atkins of Forreston, Ogle county coroner, was notified, and ordered the inquest continued until next week. The body of the Glotfelty girl was removed to the Roe-Tremble mortuary in Oregon.

Miss Glotfelty is survived by her parents; two sisters, Mrs. Darlene Schroeder and Marvalyn Glotfelty, and a brother, John Glotfelty. She was born in Ogle county Feb. 2, 1924.

Two Allied Planes Lost in Raid on Linchwan

Chungking, July 11.—(AP)—Allied planes blasted Japanese headquarters at Linchwan, main base of the enemy's drive into central Kiangsi province, "with satisfactory results" yesterday, Lieut. Gen. Joseph Stilwell's headquarters announced tonight.

The communique said two planes failed to return—the first official reference to allied losses since the Flying Tigers of the AVG were incorporated into the U. S. air force in China.

Linchwan is in the Kiangsi area where the Chinese reported the ambush and scattering of 30,000 Japanese.

Allied bombers sank a Japanese transport in the river at Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi province, and destroyed ten Japanese planes on the ground while Chinese forces pushed the invaders back in other areas of the province, Chinese dispatches reported yesterday.

All the allied planes returned safely from the raid—the second attack on that important Japanese base in eight days. On July 4, Japanese hangars were hit and three Japanese planes on a runway destroyed.

Birthday

Rock Island, Ill., July 11.—(AP)—Rock Island arsenal was 80 years old today, but it meant only another day of hard work for the 14,756 employees. No celebration has been planned.

The arsenal was authorized by an act of congress July 11, 1862 and $100,000 was appropriated for its construction.

In commenting on the event today Brig. Gen. Norma F. Ramsey, commanding officer said "In this the 80th year of the arsenal, it is facing its greatest task, that of furnishing arms to the armed forces. This is only the beginning of a new era for the arsenal".

Missing Dixon Man Awarded DSC for Heroic Action
Second Lieutenant William S. Watson of this city, reported missing in action at an island in the south Pacific since June 4, was today named one of three Illinois men who were awarded posthumously, the Distinguished Service Cross at the direction of President Roosevelt for heroism in the battle of the Midway. In all, 28 officers and men were cited for the high military honor. All of the officers and men honored were members of crews participating in the first torpedo bomber attack ever carried out by the U. S. army, the Associated Press dispatch announcing the awards stated.

Captain James C. Collins of Meridian, Miss., commander of the flight, was cited "for extraordinary heroism in action near Midway, June 4," in attacking a large Japanese naval force successfully despite strong enemy fighting aircraft and heavy anti-aircraft fire. The other Illinois officers awarded the D. S. C. were Second Lieutenants Russell H. Johnson and Colin O. Villines, both of Chicago.

Mrs. Watson, while visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Lester Street, 520 North Jefferson avenue, on June 19, received the official notification from Washington of her husband's activity and his being missing in action.

American Planes Raid Jap-Held Burma Bases

New Delhi, India, July 11.—(AP)—American planes, raiding far into northern Burma from their Indian bases, repeatedly attacked the Japanese air field at Myitkyina during the past week, preventing the Japanese from repairing or using the runways, army headquarters announced today.

Fighter pilots strafed the town and airport on July 4 and July 6 and medium bombers attacked the airfield July 7 and July 8. The first bomber attack was made with "satisfactory results," it was said.

A railway bridge at Moguany, 20 miles southwest of Myitkyina was damaged by a direct hit and a ten-car freight train was machine gunned during these operations.

No losses in personnel or planes were suffered by the U. S. Air Corps during the operations despite monsoon storms and anti-aircraft fire.

Tavern Operator is Wounded by Bandits

Chicago, July 11.—(AP)—Casper Lehuta, 48, was shot and fatally wounded early today by two bandits at whom he had fired two shotgun blasts during a robbery in his northwest side tavern.

Patrons in the tavern told police that the bandits had expressed dissatisfaction with the $20 they found in the cash register and, after slapping Lehuta several times, demanded more money.

Lehuta told the gunmen he had money upstairs and walked toward the kitchen of the tavern. At the door he ran ahead of the one robber who followed him, seized a shotgun and fired two shots which went wild. Both bandits returned the fire, and Lehuta was shot three times in the chest. The gunman fled in an automobile driven by an accomplice.

Instructor, Student Parachute to Safety

Elgin, Ill., July 11.—(AP)—When their training plane stalled and went into a dive from a height of 2,000 feet 10 miles northwest of here yesterday, Flight Instructor Leslie Smith of Sycamore and his student, Donald Schroeder of Barrington, parachuted to safety in a cornfield.

Smith, 35 and Schroeder, 30, leaped out of the single motored cabin type plane at about 800 feet. The plane crashed about a quarter of a mile away in a herd of cattle in a pasture on the Carl Schmitt farm.

The plane was from the Elgin-Kane airport near here.

Subsidy Scheme in Price Control Set-Up Is Withdrawn

Administration Against Plan Despite Warning From Henderson

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—The administration was reported today to have decided against asking congress for price control subsidies now, even though Leon Henderson has warned that present ceilings could not be maintained without them.

Informed legislators who declined quotation by name said efforts to revive the administration's dormant $750,000,000 subsidy proposal had been dropped, at least until later in the year.

Price Administrator Henderson had told a senate appropriations sub-committee that in his talks with President Roosevelt and others "it was always understood that there would be instances and important cases where the price ceilings of March could not be maintained unless there were subsidy payments of some kind".

The appropriations committee yesterday wrote into a $1,808,000,000 supplemental defense money bill a provision Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.), said would bar use of any part of the $120,000,000 office of price administration operating funds for payment of subsidies.

Previously the administration had sought authority to use up to $750,000,000 to support the price control structure by purchases through the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation of articles which would be resold to distributors at less than their cost to the government. The senate declined to act on this proposal.

Henderson had testified that if the OPA had been able to pay $100,000,000 in subsidies to distributors instead of permitting an increase of 15 per cent in the prices of canned fruits, consumers would have been saved $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 ultimately.

He said it was the OPA's experience that a price increase at the source was doubled or tripled before it reached the consumer.

These included a provision directed at eliminating at 2½ cent a gallon gasoline price increase in states served by pipelines, such as

6 Negro Soldiers Amuck; One Dead

Flagstaff, Ariz., July 11.—(AP)—Six Negro soldiers armed with machineguns, automatic rifles and pistols terrorized the business district about 3 a. m. today before one was shot and killed and another wounded, Sheriff Perry Francis reported.

Maj. H. C. Nichols, in command of Negro troops on guard duty here, said police shot two of the soldiers and captured the others.

The sheriff's office reported the soldiers apparently were angered by refusal of admittance to an all-night cafe.

They obtained the arms and began shooting in the street outside the cafe, officers added.

Only a few shots were fired, it was understood, and no citizens were injured. Sheriff's deputies and city police were called. Officers' fire dropped two of the soldiers and the others were seized and taken to jail, Major Nichols reported.

Major Nichols asserted that the soldier killed was intoxicated and that all were away without leave from their camp.

A coroner's inquest into the death of the soldier was to be held at 10 a. m., at which a complete report was expected from civil officers who subdued the soldiers.

City Editor Leaves Paper to Join Soldier-Husband; Other Girls Carry on

Elizabethon, Tenn., July 11.—(AP)—City Editor Helen Morris is leaving the Elizabethon Star to join her soldier-husband but the newspaper's all-woman staff carries on—with a bookcase-kitchenette to help it get out a wartime daily.

Mrs. Lenna Bangs, youthful grandmother who has been serving as advertising manager, took over Mrs. Morris' job, keeping intact the all-feminine lineup which gets out this paper of 4,000 circulation.

The newswomen are redecorating the office in spare time—and a bookcase well-stocked with light foodstuffs and cooking utensils yields tea and snacks daily at 10 and 4.

Tragedy

Newport News, Va., July 11.—(AP)—Charles (Pete) Ratliff, four-year-old, was exploring this fascinating world in company with his teddy-bear when he fell through a small skylight into a vacant building in East Newport News yesterday.

The glass knifed a deep cut in his back, but there was no one near enough to hear his cries. He crawled across the floor until he collapsed from loss of blood.

Searchers found his body late in the day. Clutched in an arm was his teddy-bear.

Refusal to Fight for U. S. Sends 3 Italians to Jail

Detroit, July 11.—(AP)—Three Italian-born brothers who "just came to this country to make some easy money" and refused to bear arms for the United States were held today in $2,000 bail each on charges of evading the selective service law.

Arraigned yesterday before U. S. Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd, Guido, 28, Antonio, 26, and Altello Ianni, 22, pleaded innocent and demanded counsel at government expense. They are accused specifically of failing to report for a physical examination ordered by their suburban Dearborn draft board.

A fourth brother, Gino, is a fugitive on a similar charge. John S. Bugas, head of the Detroit office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said,

"We will not fight for the United States," Bugas quoted the brothers as saying. "We owe our allegiance to Mussolini."

Later, the brothers, in their cells, said they could not fight against Italy because they would be taking up arms against relatives.

Guido said he had sent $6,000 back to Italy for the purchase of a farm to which he and his brothers, all automotive factory workers, could return.

TRIAL CONTINUES

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Army officers prosecuting and defending eight accused Nazi leaders lugged armloads of documents into the justice department today, as the secret trial resumed for its fourth day.

But as the men set ashore on east coast beaches from enemy U-boats again faced the commission of generals, there were complaints over the secrecy which has surrounded the first days of the life or death hearing.

Elmer Davis, Director of War Information, said the public would "feel better" if more news were available from the trial chambers.

Major General Frank R. McCoy, president of the commission, gave scanty details of the trial of the men alleged to have come here from Germany to slow the war effort through violence in production centers.

There were indications that the trial would go far into next week. McCoy's statement said the commission spent most of yesterday hearing testimony of an FBI agent, and reading documents.

Davis, at a press conference, said he tried to have press association reporters admitted but that the Army objected on the ground there would be evidence affecting the national security. He said that he had countered with a suggestion that the reporters be barred when such testimony was offered but that the Army had said it would be difficult to sift the types of testimony and evidence.

Cut Price

Seattle, Wash., July 11.—(AP)—A ship-supply firm discovered 22 rubber rafts, priced at $140 each, or a total of $3,080, in its stocks—all labeled "Made in Japan".

The price was cut to $2.52, or one cent a pound, as they joined the city's collection of scrap rubber.

of the corporation is Rose V. Chaseman, who turned to business after studying piano.

Mrs. Morris, 20, succeeded her husband as city editor when Mack Morris joined the Army in 1940. He now is a sergeant on the staff of the Yank, official Army newspaper.

Mary Newberry, 21, is sports editor, the only woman member of the National Federation of Baseball Writers.

Pauline Pinson, wife of a physician and mother of two children, divides her time between cooking and society editing.

Battle of Egypt Is Flaming on Toward Showdown of Foes

Critical Week-End of War Heralded; Nazis Pound at Reds

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor

Adolf Hitler's field headquarters asserted today that the German armies smashing toward the Caspian sea had reached the Don river on a 220-mile front, within 80 miles of Stalingrad at one point and had inflicted a great "destructive defeat" on the Russians.

The Nazi command claimed an advance in depth of more than 200 miles since Hitler launched his grand offensive from the Kursk-Kharkov sector two weeks ago.

Simultaneously, the violent renewal of the 18-day-old battle of Egypt marked the beginning of one of the most critical week-ends of the war—a phase which might precipitate the opening of an allied "second front" in western Europe.

At the outset the British apparently gained the upper hand as Imperial headquarters reported that Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's armies, reopening the stalemated "Battle of the Bottleneck," had advanced five miles yesterday in a pre-dawn attack.

As the battle flamed toward a showdown, allied armies, presumably including U. S. army fliers, swept into action today with the mightiest aerial assault ever witnessed in the desert.

Front-line dispatches said a greatly strengthened enemy air force rose to challenge the allied warplanes and spectacular dogfights raged high above the battle area. Axis losses were said to be high.

The British announced they had struck out westward along the railway from El Alamein, 65 miles west of Alexandria, seizing the initiative to break a 10-day lull in the Egyptian conflict.

"A number of prisoners were taken and other casualties and damage were inflicted upon the enemy," British GHQ said.

At the same time, Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's axis mechanized columns moved eastward in the southern sector of the desert battlefield, a 35-mile-wide stretch between the Mediterranean Sea coast and the desolate salt marshes of the Quattara depression.

Rommel Counterattacks A British communique said Rommel's counter thrust was "engaged by our columns, which destroyed several enemy tanks."

Italian field headquarters, also noting the resumption of violent fighting, declared: "Strong enemy attacks have been clearly repulsed in the center of the front and stopped in the northern (coastal) part, where fighting was particularly acute."

"In the southern sector, axis troops in a surprise attack have compelled the adversary to make a notable withdrawal."

As the two armies grappled in momentous battle, with the fate of the entire Middle East perhaps hanging in the balance, the news from Russia continued grave.

Under assault from five directions, Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Red armies fell back in stubborn retreat as the Germans captured Rostov, 100 miles south of Voronezh on the vitally important Moscow-Rostov railway, and pressed simultaneous offensives against Voronezh, Staryl, Oskol, Kantemirovka and Lisichansk.

Reds Admit Reverse Soviet dispatches frankly conceded that the Nazi offensive, involving an estimated 1,000,000 troops was scoring "developing successes" in a series of gigantic battles, but declared the invaders were suffering bitter losses.

Red army headquarters said a single Russian elite guard unit slaughtered 2,

MODERNIZATION

by PAUL T. HAAGEN AIA

LIVING ROOM GARDENS

There is a trend today away from the spacious front lawn with the house set back as far on the lot as space would permit, and toward the utilizing of as much of the grounds as possible in a private garden at the rear and incorporated into the living room for views and vistas and beauty.

There must be some front lawn, of course, enough to form a suitable setting for the house as seen from the street. There should be a minimum of planting, limiting this to the foundation shrubs and well chosen shade trees.

The front walk and entrance drive should be simple in design and of inconspicuous material. If there is room, it is nice to have a parking court where an extra car may stand without blocking the drive to the garage. This is important if there is not a separate service drive to the kitchen porch or door.

It is advisable to plan, when building, a service entrance, garage, coal chute or oil inlet, basement door near the kitchen door so that all service may be conveniently located for use. If laundering is done in the house, a drying yard is a necessity; and even if this is not the case, there should be some space where a line may be put up for occasional use of airing household fabrics, etc.

As much space as possible should be left for the main garden at the side or rear of the property where flowers and shrubs should be arranged for picture effect and become an outdoor living room.

Usually the first consideration for such a garden is an enclosing hedge or shrub border, in addition to a fence or wall, perhaps. This assures privacy, intimacy and a certain exclusion of any undesirable views.

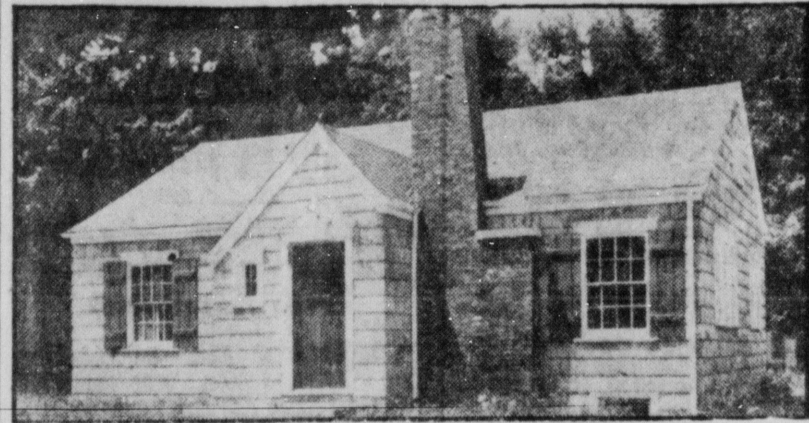

Next should be devised the means of getting about the garden, by the placing of paths or open areas where grass is grown and permitting passage to the masses of bloom, or to an occasional seat or lawn-chair. Such paths should develop on an axis taken from some feature of the house—usually the doorway from the living room or porch through which one enters the garden.

WATER SOFTENING

There is a tried and proven system of softening the water used throughout your house so you may have clear, iron-free and suds-producing water from any faucet instantly. This is such a luxury and comfort for it is worth considering for these benefits alone, and in addition, it soon saves its cost of installation in the lesser quantity of soap used, the lesser wear and tear on linens washed in the softened water, the saving in plumbing repairs, and the increased efficiency and speed with which dishes, laundry and cleaning of all kinds about the house may be accomplished. Why not look into this simple appliance today and give your family a real treat?

CHIMNEY CONSTRUCTION

PRACTICAL WOOD SHINGLES

Wood shingles covering the outside walls of a house are most practical. They are inexpensive, tight and warm. This house has an excellent plan with two bedrooms, kitchen and dinette. The living room is large enough for the small family and the vestibule with a coat closet is a needed adjunct in a cold climate.

CHIMNEY CONSTRUCTION

CARE SHOULD BE EXERCISED IN BUILDING CHIMNEY

In building the flues and chimneys of your home, you should realize that you are dealing with one of the most potential fire hazards that may threaten the dwelling.

Instruct your building superintendent or mason who is building the chimney to minutely inspect every joint to see that it is properly clinched with mortar and to examine carefully the distance between every timber near the chimney and flues, and see that sufficient air space is between the timber and the flue.

Single flue chimneys with 4-inch walls are to be condemned. Even if the flues are plastered with mortar inside, it is a fire risk because plaster will disintegrate, the joints open up, and hot chimney gases will escape into the building through cracks in the brickwork. A double-flue chimney stack has greater stability. Rather than plastering the inside of flues, use hard burned terra cotta flue lining.

A fireplace flue should be at least 12 by 12 inches in size and it is advisable to have a flat shelf at the back of the upper part of the fireplace so that wind blowing down the chimney will be diverted and not puff directly into the fireplace and blow smoke and soot out into the room.

The chimney throat should be long and narrow to create a strong draft. Beyond this throat there should be a smoke chamber leading into an ample flue, proceeding as plumb as possible to the top of the chimney. When the smoke chamber or flue is too small, smoke puffs out into the room.

Chimney tops should extend at least three feet above a flat roof and two feet above the highest ridge on a peaked roof. A cap may be decorative and its purpose is to keep moisture from trickling down the chimney and getting into the joints of mortar, thus disintegrating the brickwork.

Home Renters Check

Now Time to Build—Money Available

Most home renters have never stopped to think, when they write their rent check each month, that there is a way by which a part of their check could go to their credit against the day when they would own their own home. If there ever was a time when money paid out for rent could be made to buy a home of your own advantageously, it is now. Building costs are still down and the Federal Housing Administration has provided home loans at new low interest rates which make it possible to own your home.

If you have been thinking about owning your own home and you fail to make the dream come true within the next few months, there is an excellent chance that you will feel very much like the fellow who has missed the boat. Today every factor is favorable to home building loans which are more economical and easier to carry than ever before.

SPRAYS AT THE SINK

Housewives find that the rubber sink-faucet widget which turns a spray of water on vegetables, dishes or sink is a great convenience when one is wanting to get things done.

Where the sink faucet combines the hot and cold water, it is particularly useful; where the faucets are separate, have a widget for each one. Hot spray may be used on dishes; cold on the vegetables.

TERMITES

One of the indications of the presence of termites in a building is the emigration of the termites from the building in the spring and fall. These will be winged insects. Another sign is the discovery of the branching shelter tubes on the foundation fall, reaching up from the ground to the woodwork over the surface of brick, stone or concrete. Damage to a building will usually be indicated by the sagging of the basement floor or studding.

KITCHEN HINTS SAVE HOUSEWIFE

Cabinets and Work Tops Require Planning

When designing the kitchen it is a mistake to build all cabinets the same size. They should be built according to the use to which they are to be put.

Properly located counter space should be provided, at a uniform height of two feet 10 inches above the floor. If counters are not the same height, there will be unnecessary breakage of dishes.

Counter tops may be of wood and in that case they should be of the type that withstands water. Marble, glass and tile tops are fine but are expensive and too hard to be practical. The linoleum top is one of the most successful being used at present.

Counters in the kitchen should be at least 22 inches wide and should extend beyond the lower portion about two inches to allow foot room. Knee room while sitting on a kitchen stool should also be provided.

PLASTERING

The first coat of plaster should be applied with considerable force in order to squeeze the material into the spaces between the laths and up against the lath so the plaster will hold firmly. Good troweling uses up more material than poor work, and this should be allowed for.

All coats of plaster should be well troweled and the last coat should be evenly applied over the entire surface. If plaster is uneven the carpenter cannot apply window casings, baseboards, etc. tightly because of the uneven surface.

AIR CONDITIONING

A simple method of improving the air-conditioning in a home during the summer is quite practical with little or no expenditure of money. Use the cooler air from the basement, thereby tempering the summer heat in the house. By opening the windows or the louvers in the attic or one window on the second floor, and opening the fire box door of the furnace, there will be a constant flow of cool basement air to the upper rooms.

HOUSE NUMBERS

As you drive along the highway or city streets, you often notice the reflecting glass markers that indicate street ends, road signs, display window information, etc. that spring into sight when the headlight is turned upon them.

You may have the same sort of signs for your house number or name which will be a great help in directing strangers to your house, or even friends may sometimes need the number to lead them into your driveway. They are not expensive, being sold by the letter or numeral.

PRIMING COAT

The priming coat of paint should be quite thin and contain a high percentage of oil. The main purpose of this first coat is to soak well into the wood, which cannot be achieved by the use of thick paint. The second coat should be a little thicker than the first.

Remodeling Provides Homes for War Workers

Houses in war-industry areas may be converted into multifamily dwelling units through the use of private funds of qualified lending institutions under the war housing plan of the Federal Housing Administration.

The recent order of the War Production Board as related to housing gives a high preference rating to deliveries of critical materials intended for low-cost remodeling projects in war-industry areas. Such materials may be obtained up to $100 a room, with total critical materials available in each structure amounting to $800.

Such conversions are of considerable service in easing the housing shortages in these war industrial areas. Forms for priorities for home local offices of the Federal Housing Administration.

BUILDING COSTS

There is a saying that it always costs twice as much to build as people estimate in the beginning. This is not quite so, although most houses do cost somewhat more than the owner expects. To avoid unexpected expense, work out your plans very carefully and make sure that the specifications cover all the work to be completed and that the building estimates are correct.

Long-Well LUMBER IT'S IN MANY DIXON HOMES

A Well-Built House Is A Sound Investment

Luxurious equipment and finishes on a house at the expense of sound construction is a waste of money and a mistake in judgment. It is better to invest your money in a soundly and well-built modest home than in a house that looks like a mansion and is full of gingerbread ornaments and poor workmanship. The Home Lumber and Coal Co. would be glad to advise you.

More Jokes . . .

During recent weeks, we have heard quite a lot of comment as to what became of all the jokes that used to be in the Knot-Hole News. This week, we will put in some extra jokes and we hope that you readers enjoy each and every one of them.

The modern miss asked the pro if he could tell her how to play golf.

Pro: "Sure, it's easy enough. All you do is smack the pill and then walk."

Modern Miss: "How interesting. Just like some auto rides I've been on."

"The boy in the picture is my grandfather at the age of ten years. Fancy being a grandfather at that age."

Missus: "Well, you can't say I ran after you."

Mister: "No and neither does a mouse trap run after mice, but it catches 'em just the same."

And then there was the dumb sailor who thought that a mushroom was a breakfast nook.

Wife: "I was quite outspoken at the club today."

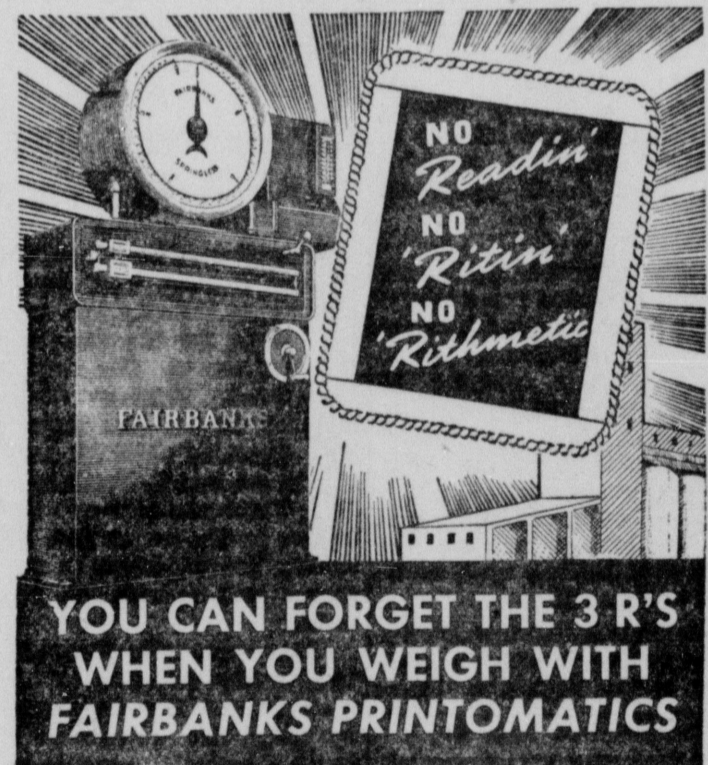

Hubby: "I can't believe it. Who outspoke you?"

William: "How many kinds of wood are used in making a match?"

Sarah: "Two kinds—he would and she would."

YOU CAN FORGET THE 3 R'S WHEN YOU WEIGH WITH FAIRBANKS PRINTOMATICS

Honest weight has always been one of our strictest rules and now, with the addition of a new Fairbanks Printomatic scale, it is IMPOSSIBLE to make an error in weights.

The reason is simple. The Fairbanks Printomatic eliminates any need for reading and making notations of weight. Now when a load of coal is run onto the platform the person weighing the load presses a button and the exact weight is PRINTED on a weight ticket. There is no chance for misreading the amount shown on the scale—no chance of misreading the numbers which may have been written in haste.

The installation of this modern equipment is just another step on our part to assure you of absolutely honest measure.

Cement Paint Easy to Clean

Mr. George Scheneman, until recently farming south of Sublette, has moved to Amboy, Ill. Mr. Scheneman visited our offices yesterday and made a purchase of genuine Medusa Portland Cement. Paint and plans on the painting the interior of the basement where he lives in Amboy.

This type of painting over cement and stucco is quite successful and always looks clean and fresh. To clean the interior or exterior of basement walls that have been painted with this paint is a simple matter. Just take the hose and give it a good washing.

It's Not Too Hot to Build a Fireplace

Now during the hottest months it might seem odd to talk about the amount of heat that you should get from a fireplace but to talk about the construction of one is a different matter, and we maintain that now is as good a time as any to build a new fireplace in the basement or recreation room. It would be advisable to install a double walled steel form in the masonry construction around which the fireplace is built. There are openings in the front of the device at the floor and over the shelf through which the cold air is drawn off the floor, heated and then the heated air escapes into the room. Rapid and even heating is possible, and this equipment adds but little to the cost of the fireplace, and does save much heat and provides extra warmth for chilly days. It's nice to talk about chilly days, isn't it?

Remember Mule-Hide Roofing is TOUGH and STRONG and LASTS TWICE as LONG. We have a Mule-Hide Roof to fit your pocketbook—either asphalt, shingles or roll roofing for new roofs or covering old wood shingle roofs.

Wartime Fashion

A Victory corsage, the "newest thing in flowers," adorns the jacket lapel of Miss Florence Dornin, lovely Powers' model of New York. Cellophane covered war stamps tied with red, white and blue ribbons form the bouquet. This new patriotic fashion trend, designed as a novelty to promote the sale of war savings bonds and stamps, is sweeping the country. Like real flowers, the Victory corsage should be worn only a few times. Then the stamps should be pasted into a war stamp album to aid in the purchase of a bond.

Women Golfers of Princeton Entertain Lincoln Highway Meet 2 Days Next Week

The cream of the crop of linkswomen from at least five, and perhaps six, of the eight clubs comprising the Lincoln Highway Women's Golf association, will begin play in their own tournament Tuesday afternoon at the sporty, pine-fringed course of the Bureau Valley Country club at Princeton. Although the tourney is not to be a wartime casualty, the tire situation has, nevertheless, entered into the decision of two teams—Davenport, Ia., and Oregon—against entering. Mrs. Conrad Dyke of the hostess club, chairman for the two-day contest, announced this morning that she has received registrations from the Dixon, Morrison, Rock River at Sterling, Rochelle and Princeton clubs, and expected definite word from Clinton, Iowa—last year's winner—later in the day.

The Davenport team, invited to the tournament for the first time last year and prevented from accepting because of a state tourney being held in their city, are hopeful of competing in the Lincoln Highway contest in 1943.

Absence of Miss Martha Betty Putnam, their 18-karat member with the golden touch who successfully defended her 1940 title in last year's edition of the tourney here, together with the necessity for conserving tires, caused members of the Oregon team to

After a week's rest, the Kable concert band is resuming its concert Saturday night at 8:30. Although the band personnel is affected somewhat each week by vacations, it has been possible to have a sufficient number in each section to maintain the usual standard.

This week's program is made up almost entirely of old favorite melodies by well known composers, including Victor Herbert and Romberg. Ira Vail has taken an old song of childhood days, "London Bridge is Falling Down," and arranged it into a fine number in the modern style.

The public address system, although not yet completed, will soon be in use and the band anticipates the presentation of a number of vocalists to give variety to the program:

The program follows:
March, "The Viking" — Karl King
Overture, "Trojan Prince" — G. E. Holmes
"One Alone" from "The Desert Song" — Sigmund Romberg
March, "The Great Plains" — J. J. Richards
Excerpts from the musical comedy, "Sweethearts" — Victor Herbert

New Abe Lincoln Is Portrayed in Play on Broadway

New York—(Wide World)—A distinguished group of playwrights and players have now formed an experimental theater on Broadway where trials are given to new plays which might not have a popular appeal to commercial producers.

Their first experiment presents a new Abraham Lincoln in the drama by Paul Horgan, "Your, A. Lincoln," and it is a Lincoln very different from the man one saw when Raymond Massey played him in Robert E. Sherwood's "Abe Lincoln of Illinois" or when Frank McGlynn played him in John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln."

Lincoln, in Horgan's drama, is shown not so much as a tragic, powerful leader of his divided nation. In stead he is shown as a wishful thinking man and one who hasn't the strength to stand up against the ambitious aims of War Secretary Stanton.

The story introduces Lincoln in his last years when he was both trying to conduct the war between the states and at the same time trying to reconcile varying forces and bring it to a close. He wants, according to Horgan's drama, to settle the conflict over a conference table and thus allow the soldiers on both sides to return to their farms and stores.

Stanton as Dictator

But Stanton is presented as the man with dictatorial aims, the member of the cabinet who seeks to take advantage of the gentle philosophy of Lincoln and perhaps to ride to a higher office. In fact, the play intimates that Stanton knew considerable about the plot of John Wilkes Booth to assassinate Lincoln.

The play, which is being given in its experimental stage as charity performances for the stage relief and actors funds, is definitely not of the type that would attract a commercial manager although it is well written and has a challenging theme.

The producers, among whom are Russell Crouse, Robert E. Sherwood, Antonette Perry and Arthur Kober, have peopled the play with a splendid cast. Vincent Price gave a brilliant performance as Lincoln, although his performance cannot be compared to previous ones because the Lincoln he plays is so different from the traditional one.

Parker Fennelly, as the father of a boy Lincoln knew in the war, and Mary Michael, as Mrs. Lincoln, gave excellent performances in this good cast for a play that undoubtedly will attract both controversy and praise.

Reopened passenger car tires that will travel as much as 10,000 miles and give motorists two years' service under wartime driving restrictions are the aim of the government's most recent tire conservation program.

A Thought for Today

Greater love hath no man than this,

A friend is worth all hazards we can

Sugar Shortage

The current controversy over sugar is unfortunate. However it may be settled, there will be those—not fifth columnists or sixth, but just ordinary suspicious and bellicose patriots—who will argue that the whole business has been badly bungled. These critics will be second-guessing, so they will have plenty of embarrassing material at their command.

The Office of Price Administration says firmly that sugar stocks on hand are not as large as the public believes, that the sugar shipping situation may not continue as favorable as in the past few months. OPA, while making two extra pounds of sugar available between July 10 and Aug. 22, still maintains that it is not possible to assure permanent increases in the weekly ration.

The real dispute is between those who believe sugar will continue coming in at the present pace—and therefore the public should be given a fatter allowance—and those who fear shipments may fall off soon, and argue that a stock-pile must be built up to insure against future shortage.

The original decision to ration sugar appeared amply justifiable, in view of the shipping situation and our need for molasses from which to make alcohol for munitions.

However, instead of 1,300,000 tons of sugar for munitions, we found it necessary to use only 400,000 tons. The balance came from grain.

At the same time ships returning from Hawaii were able to bring back more sugar than we had expected; and ships from South America have been able to drop in at Havana and pick up more of the cane product. Also, domestic beet production shot up once the government lifted the heavy hand of planting quotas.

So we have achieved an apparent surplusage. A Houston refinery has had to close down because more than 20,000,000 pounds of refined sugar are bulging its warehouses. A New Jersey plant has shut down because of too much refined and too little raw sugar. A congressman alleges that we are paying seven corporations for not producing sugar.

If the government decides to increase the sugar allowance, some will say the bureaucrats went too far in the beginning. But if, with the existing surplus, the moguls decide not to flavor the national sweet tooth, they can expect a mighty and devastating protest.

When Are They Going to Chase 'em?

At the western tip of that string of islands known as the Aleutians, which extend from Alaska toward Japan, the Japanese have landed and made themselves at home. Three of the islands, according to reports, have been seized.

Ordinarily it wouldn't be considered important whether any one were on the islands or not. They are fogbound much of the year and the climate is said to be abominable. It seems no one wants to live there or even remain there except for military purposes.

Nevertheless, these islands are American property. We bought Alaska and paid for it, and the islands came along as accessories. They are ours, and they are now occupied by a country which declared war upon us when we weren't looking.

If the amateur strategist had his way about it, he'd be sending streams of convoys, flocks of airplanes and no end of battleships to the tip of the Aleutians to eject these squatters. Yankee territory has been violated. It isn't just territory we were holding in escrow, so to speak, like the Philippines. The Aleutians are ours.

To date, the American military has seemed not greatly disturbed by the invasion. Maybe that is the correct attitude from a strategic standpoint, and no doubt we'll pitch out the new occupants when the proper time comes.

The average Americans, we believe, will remain disturbed about the fact that the Japs got there first, even though the islands in question are closer to Japan than to the United States.

The average American will not rest easily until they are recovered. We want 'em back, even though they are not good for anything. Will the army and navy please keep that in mind?

36-Cent Strike

Four Yellow Truck Company plants in Michigan were shut down, and 111,000 workmen made idle at a time when Hitler and Hirohito are pushing us around all over the world because we lack adequate armament. The reason? Each man had been docked 36 cents for 20 minutes the plant was closed down during a test blackout.

At any other time such an affair would be ludicrous. But not now. The fate of the world, for generations to come, resting upon American production—and men are docked 36 cents each while they stand by for a blackout! Hitler threatening the Suez Canal, Hitler threatening the oil wells of the Caucasus, the Japs holding islands in the western hemisphere, and 11,000 men won't work over 36 cents each!

We say scallions to both employer and employee.

If I Only Had—

Dr. William J. Hale, head of a chemistry firm and consultant to a major chemical concern, says he could make all the rubber we need if he had $100,000,000, manpower and priorities on material.

Given money, men, materials and time, there never has been any question that we could have all the synthetic rubber we could use. The money would be easy, in wartime for war purposes. The men would come harder. The materials—steel and copper particularly—are so scarce that shipyards are slowing down for lack of the former, and silver being borrowed from the Treasury for scarcity of the latter.

So what?

MURDER IN FERRY COMMAND

BY A. W. O'BRIEN

COPYRIGHT, 1942.
NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Clyde Dawson, Canadian intelligence Department, hasn't many clues to work on in tracking fifth columnist operating against the R. A. F. Bomber Ferry Command. One of the spies, Lemmy Statler, has been hanged for murder. He left Dawson a snapshot of a girl who looks like a famous film actress, and a cryptic note about a broken "reunion date." Then, after post-mortem examination Dawson cleverly deduces that Statler was a hokey and base-ball player—probably a college athlete.

A GHOULISH GIFT

CHAPTER III

THE sleeping car was uncomfortably overheated as the Newfoundland train sped through the sub-zero night. It was blowing into a raging blizzard in the heart of the Topicals section of the 547-mile trail from St. John's to Port-au-Basques, sailing point for the Cabot Strait crossing to Canada.

That afternoon a cable had arrived from Ottawa informing him that the State University, located just outside Chicago, had wired that it was believed the man whose identity the department sought had been a star athlete there prior to graduation in 1929.

Dawson decided to try another cigar. He got into his dressing gown and slippers in the cramped quarters and weaved his way down the bumping aisle between green-curtained berths to the small combination washing and smoking compartment at the end.

The swinging door separating the smoking compartment from the rest of the car moved inward with a cold draught evidently caused by the door at the far end of the car being opened.

Dawson hoped that it was the conductor—he'd have a talk about the heating system. But fully a minute passed by and nobody appeared. The door into the car had opened, there was no doubt about it. Impatiently he stood up and looked through the glass down the aisle.

Suddenly Dawson was on the alert. Down near the end of the car a muffled man was pulling apart the curtains of a lower berth in stealthy fashion—and it was Dawson's berth!

For a split second he caught a flash of white face as the figure hurriedly withdrew from the empty berth and took a quick look toward the smoking compartment before wheeling and rushing out.

DAWSON was yards behind and the chase was difficult due to the motion of the train. Between two cars he lost one of his slippers on the snowy platform but kept going on one bare foot. Abruptly he halted three cars beyond his own. The man had vanished—either he had hopped into a berth Dawson already passed or was in a berth still further back.

Returning to his car, Dawson went directly to the berth he had occupied and switched on the light. He whistled softly through the monotonous clickety-click of the wheels.

His pillow was badly slashed by what must have been a sharp knife!

"Now what in hell was that for?" Dawson muttered to himself.

The next day he kept strictly to himself aboard the train. This behavior was prompted by thinking things over during the early morning hours following the knife-slashing episode. He realized that in the dim light he hadn't seen anything that might prove a clue to the would-be killer's identity. If he acted like a person looking for somebody the following day it would only serve to put Mr. X on his guard.

There was only one thing to do. Act indifferently in the hope that it would invite the killer to try again.

However, nothing unusual happened during the long day as the Overland Express puffed through the bleak country. It was running four hours late as a result of the long fight against the blizzard.

Port-aux-Basques, a lonesome little fishing village now ten times busier than in pre-war days, was reached shortly before midnight. The train pulled in directly onto the wharf beside which a fleet of fishing boats, their sailless masts towering forlornly above the tops of the cars, rested at anchor. Down the wharf, waiting for the passenger and cargo load from the train, was the ice-breaker Caribou, a sturdy veteran of many rugged battles on the turbulent Cabot Strait.

THE railway company had reserved a cabin for Dawson and he went to it after hurriedly reporting to the pursuer. It had four bunks, two at right angles and two parallel to the door. He nodded approvingly at the lay-out, then stepped out on deck. There was a dark corner directly above the deck on which the gangplank led and he wanted to study the passengers as they came aboard.

It took less than half an hour and Dawson found grim humor in the fact that one of those passengers was apparently boarding the boat to murder him yet he could only guess at which one or ones it could be. But imprinting mental pictures of them all might come in handy later on.

About 1:30, Dawson wandered into the corner of the lounge where the pursuer was completing his endless forms for the company's records and the Canadian immigration authorities. A group of American and Canadian soldiers homeward bound on leave had started a poker game while another was blowing lazy tunes out of a mouth organ.

"Pardon me, Mr. Purser," said Dawson, "I was expecting to meet up with some old friends tonight—has anybody asked for the whereabouts of my cabin?" He gave him a name.

The pursuer shook his head. "No sir—nobody has asked for you. But it might not have been necessary—your pal or pals could have seen your name on this big sheet and noticed the cabin number beside it."

Dawson nodded. "Uh-huh, that's probably what happened." Mr. X would hardly have done anything so risky as to ask for his victim's cabin number.

With every sense alert, the investigator lighted his pipe, walking slowly and deliberately down the passageway towards his cabin. The Caribou had cast off and was already grinding into the ice with strong, tireless luges. From a nearby cabin came sounds of some poor landlubber in distress after the first few rolls.

At his cabin door, Dawson paused, opened it just enough to switch on the cabin light and pushed the door, meanwhile bending down to pick up his lighter which he had purposely dropped. With one fast movement of his head, his eyes swept through the interior of the cabin and up and down the passageway... nobody anywhere.

Inside the cabin, Dawson shoved a small suit case beneath the blankets of the lower bunk parallel to the door. It wasn't enough to form the shape of a sleeping man and he picked up the blanket rolled at the bottom of the other lower berth. As he did so, a package dropped onto the cabin floor. Quickly he picked it up and read his name printed in bold, block ink letters.

Gingerly Dawson unwrapped it and found a cardboard box. He lifted the lid and looked at the contents... a sudden nausea rushing over him.

It was a human hand—hacked off at the wrist. What left his stomach feeling troubled was the horrible realization that he recognized that hand beyond any shadow of doubt.

The one badly twisted "baseball" knuckle and the partially twisted one told Dawson that hand had belonged to the hanged Lemmy Statler!

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON.

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, July 10—Hitler's new plan of grand strategy for winning the war this year has now at last become apparent in recent events.

It is the one he dreamed at Berchtesgaden on those lonely nights last winter, the one he promised the German people would evolve from his "intuition".

The most obvious thing about it is that his "intuition" is not as lively this year as formerly, significant also is the fact that his plan for winning almost ignores axis consideration and is limited to purely German objectives.

It almost ignores the whole Italian theatre of war. The operations of General Rommel have been purposely held by Hitler to a sideshow. Most recent reports from that front make it clear.

The Rommel campaign originally was intended only to capture Tobruk. Hitler was greatly surprised at the ease with which this was accomplished, and authorized further pursuit to capture Alexandria and Cairo, but would not furnish enough prompt plane reinforcements to assure that result. He refused to spare them from his own campaign in Russia.

There the whole mass of German strength has been centered to force an armistice before next December 1. Even axis-partner Japan has not fitted yet into Hitler's intuitive scheming (it may any day now, with an attack on Russia in the Siberian theatre.)

Even the United States and Britain have been largely ignored in the Hitler calculations, except as they are involved in his Russian purposes. There have been no large concentrated bombing attacks on Britain this year.

His naval strength has been centered off Norway for a sea blitz against allied supplies to Murnansk (the results of this operation are still undetermined in view of the claimed Russian disabling of the Tirpitz and the amazing German contention that they have sunk 32 out of 38 ships in one convoy.)

In the Mediterranean, he has brought to bear only a few Italian submarines under German officers, and a limited number of planes to attack Malta and British convoys to Egypt.

Also the Nazi submarine operations off our coast have been shown by events to be only a minor phase of Hitler's operations, despite our heavy losses, amounting to about 360 known and many more unknown ships.

By these attacks in American waters, Hitler is only trying to get Britain and the United States to transfer more of their armed naval craft from the Russian convoy route to Murnansk and thus make his attacks there easier.

His Russian tactics indicate nothing as brilliant as the German army showed earlier in France and Poland. At Kursk, he struck at a shrewdly-chosen weak point between the central and the southern Russian armies, cutting the railroads connecting them, and thus preventing them from getting reinforcements back and forth. This cut enabled him then to turn south against Marshal Timoshenko's army with the immediate objective of destroying it and the ultimate objective of reaching the Volga, where he could sever the indispensable Russian oil supply route from the Caucasus or seize the fields himself.

But it is apparent from the way he is working, his military objectives in Russia are not limited to these points alone. His preparations behind the lines already show he is getting ready to hit at Moscow again in the north, if these southern operations do not work out well.

It is not correct to say that the war in Europe must be determined by the results of these operations within the next thirty days. Hitler is taking his time. He can fight in the south until December 1.

Thus, he has more than four months remaining in which to fulfill a realistic, plausible, but not characteristically imaginative campaign.

Unless he can destroy the Russian army with this program, he cannot even claim a victory in Europe. And if he does destroy the Russian army, he must still face the United States and Britain. All bad news now and for the next few weeks should be read in the light of these focusing facts.

Roosevelt is as annoyed as anyone at the inability of our coastal convoy and patrol system to cope fully with the Nazi submarine menace off our shores.

A congressman who had attacked the "gold bar brigade" of the armed forces in a speech went in with fear and trembling next day before the president, but found him using language even more emphatic. Also the president congratulated a senator who

OUR BOYS

Our boys are in the army, training to defend our land.
Against every aggressor, who may test our nation's stand.
We pray God to bless and shield your boy and mine,
We do not want to spill their blood, or wreck their manhood fine.

They are called out to give their all; their youth, their strength, their life.

We must not fail to implore God, to end this awful strife.
The glory of our freedom's flag was won by those who knew,
That God was fighting on their side and would see them thru.

God grant our flag, our glorious flag, the red the white the blue,
Flies high above your boy and mine and spur them on anew.
In our daily duties you and I must never lag.

But pray the Lord to keep our boys, and save our nation's flag.

Illinois Farmers Will Raise Fourth Nation's Soybeans

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—

Farmers in Illinois in 1942 will harvest a million more acres of soy beans than in 1941, the agriculture department estimates, bringing this year's acreage close to four million. The total was more than one-fourth of the estimated acreage for the nation.

The department's estimate for the state was 3,840,000 this year compared with 2,743,000 in 1941. The acreage for all purposes in the nation was estimated at 14,241,000, an increase of 42.5 per cent over last year and 35 per cent more than the previous record of 1940.

The department said definite indications were not available as to what proportion of the total acreage would be harvested for beans. It was explained this would depend upon weather conditions from now to harvest, the prospective yield of beans, availability of harvesting machinery and the need for hay. Iowa's estimated acreage was listed at 2,241,000 compared with 1,318,000 last year and Indiana's 1,771,000 as against 1,205,000.

Methodists Will Ask Congress to Prohibit Liquor in Army Camps

Chicago, July 11.—(AP)—The general board of lay activities of the Methodist church and the lay leaders of the 114 Methodist conferences adopted a resolution yesterday urging legislation prohibiting the sale of any alcohol beverage "within training camps," and "to control liquor selling" to men in uniform in communities near camps.

The Methodist headquarters, in a statement, said the action would be followed by an appeal to congress "by millions of Methodists through the lay leaders of the 41,000 local churches."

The statement said the Methodist groups also protested "the issuance of tires to manufacturers and retailers of liquor and the classification by the government of this business as an essential industry."

Market Analysis Is Devised for Small Merchants

Gives Help to Those Towns Passed Up By War

Washington.—(Wide World)—Small towns which have been wringing their hands instead of ringing their cash registers since war began are being offered a leg-up to new business by the department of commerce.

The leg-up is a "small town manual for community action." It is only a starter but it gives small merchants and civic leaders with spirit a system for checking through their town's business worries and pursuing the trade that can be caught.

The manual, tried experimentally in 12 communities of less than 25,000 population, shows the way for ordinary men-in-the-street to get the lowdown on their local markets—just as large corporations get it from high-priced market analysts.

It takes the mystery out of public-opinion polls, market surveys, statistical analysis, and gives any committee of citizens the working tools for getting at the roots of the troubles where local business is dying on the stalk.

Cash in On Trade
It is intended to help with the double job of mobilizing the community for home-front tasks of war and setting the town's business house in order to cash in on trade now and when peace comes.

Raymond Reeves, who got up the manual with the help of others, describes it thus:

"There is no magic in this book. No 'experts' or bigwigs from outside are needed to put the plan into action. x x x It is based on a cold, deliberate inventory of your town's assets and liabilities—in the trading area from which customers come to your town to trade, or should come but do not, but will come when you offer them sound inducements.

"You will find, probably that your town is located where it is for reasons that vanished with the horse and buggy, or when certain natural resources became exhausted. You cannot build your town by trying to recapture the old days and the trade of those days.

"New trade. New reasons for trading. New assets to develop. These are the items you can uncover and discover and use. Many a town of America can stage a comeback, probably your town can. But if your town's case is hopeless, the quicker you find it out, the better for you."

What Is Result
Progress: What good have towns got out of this self-analysis, self-help idea?

Nothing spectacular. No big overnight war plants. No real estate booms.

The manual steers clear of the subsidizing-industry approach to civic welfare; vigorously argues that "most small American towns will find their greatest opportunities outside of the industrial field." It stresses the small town's chances to live fully by living in close harmony with the farms around it.

Some cases that commerce men cite:

Getting the facts of local business down in black-and-white, a small Nebraska town (Norfolk) saw itself in a new light as an important center of egg production. The eggs were being hauled 200 miles to Kansas for dehydration. They're working now to get a dehydration plant at home.

War industries and the armed services stripped a lot of population off Olathe, Kans. A survey of housing and employment catalogued their vacancies and their idle hands. When new war plants sprang up in towns to left and right, Olathe had a list of rooms ready for bed-hunting workers; a list of potential workers for employment men. Foreseeing a possible shortage of harvest hands on its neighboring farms, Olathe also catalogued all the people in town who could work part-time to bring the harvest home.

If you live in one of the towns the war passed by, it might be worth a try. The manual can be had free by writing: Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

Other suggestions: That the Methodist colleges give formal training for lay leadership in church congregations, that ministers be guaranteed minimum salaries and that the church plan now to give aid to returning soldiers after the war.

Army Private Drowns When Raft Capsizes
Kane, Ill., July 11.—(AP)—Edward Brunsworth of Worden, an army private on leave from Jefferson Barracks, and his brother-in-law Howard Naylor of Alton, were drowned when a home-made raft of barrels capsized yesterday. Their bodies were recovered from the flood-swollen waters of a creek near here.

People Will Have 'Clear, Accurate' Picture of War

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Director Elmer Davis pledged the new Office of War Information today to "give the people a clear, complete and accurate picture" of the war, and to prevent "conflicting statements which confuse the public mind."

As for his relations with the war and navy departments, Davis told questioners he did not believe a civilian was qualified to determine questions of military security. He added that he had "not found any mood in the services to hold back bad news because it is bad news." His office, he remarked, certainly was "against anything like that."

In allowing the army and navy freer rein, he explained, he was operating on the theory that no civilian was qualified to determine what information would or would not endanger national security.

Davis directed heads of all government departments and agencies to maintain an open-door policy in their relations with the press and radio. The OWI will maintain no censorship of any kind over news stories.

However, all news releases relating significantly to the war effort or involving several different government agencies must be approved by OWI, Davis said, as a means of preventing conflict. Speeches, statements, material for newsreels, and material for radio news will be handled in the same manner.

On the other hand, OWI will make no effort to suppress differences of opinion between high government officials, although it will seek to "harmonize" them if possible. Congressmen likewise are not affected by Davis' regulations, except that OWI will furnish them factual information "if they want it."

Illinoisans Give Without Stint in Rubber Salvage

Chicago, July 11.—Residents of Illinois responded to the rubber salvage drive in their usual patriotic manner, Robert Ticken, chairman of the salvage committee, Illinois State Council of Defense, today reported to Gov. Green.

Even before the drive ended, Ticken said, thousands of tons brought to gas stations had raised Illinois to third place in the roll of states.

This is all the more impressive, he pointed out, in view of the fact that thousands of tons of rubber have left the state during the last months in the course of Illinois' continuing over-all salvage campaign, which gave the state first place in salvage of metal.

Mr. Ticken said that without a doubt, Illinois would have led the nation in rubber tonnage had not previous drives yielded so much rubber. In addition, he said, other thousands of tons, bought directly by members of the Rubber Reserve Corporation, were not added to the state's total.

"I want to express the gratitude of the State Council and to everyone who cooperated in making this drive a success," Ticken said.

ceive badly needed reinforcements, both in men and equipment. At the same time Rommel's striking power apparently deteriorated because of lack of supplies due to the over-extension of his lines of communication.

Thus we see Auchinleck become the aggressor and a cautious sort of war just enough to keep the initiative, make things uncomfortable for Rommel and be ready to take advantage of any opening without actually precipitating a renewal of the battle for which the British weren't ready. Yesterday, for instance, the British pushed that right flank of Rommel's back still further but Rommel rebounded there and the British struck his left for a five mile advance.

Everybody realized that Rommel hadn't lost his cunning and that he was still the dangerous foe who more than once had turned almost certain defeat into victory. Whether he or Auchinleck is ready for full scale resumption of the battle is not known.

Rommel's need of help is confirmed by the appearance of a convoy heading across the Mediterranean for Libya. British headquarters announce that long-range United States bombers which were scouting for axis ships, shot down two German fighter planes that tried to intercept the Yankees. At the same time a British submarine was reported as sinking an axis vessel and a naval auxiliary ship.

Reports from Ankara say that Hitler is moving reinforcements to Rommel from the Balkans. It is said that German troops are being pulled out of Yugoslavia and even Crete. While the dispatches don't mention equipment, it must be assumed that this also is being sent, since it's safe to assume that Rommel needs it even more than he does men. That Hitler places great store on a victory in Egypt is quite clear. The appearance of the axis convoys off the Libyan coast will be awaited with tense anxiety by both allies and axis. That the advent of these ships will result in a fiercer and more bitter attack by the allies is probable. Meanwhile there is no indication whether Auchinleck is receiving further help, but presumably he is being rushed to him.

maybe," he added, "it will turn out to be a short one."

Ovations for Knudsen

The war production chief said the recent alignment of the War Production Board would mean the placing of more of the production responsibility "squarely upon the shoulders of industry itself, as it should be."

Asserting that "there is no confusion in this question of rubber", he said a major task lies ahead in building up a synthetic rubber industry, "but we know exactly where we are going."

The synthetic rubber plants, he said, "are under way and I believe they are going to produce the rubber. If we're wrong, I'll take complete and final responsibility for the decisions we have made."

Nelson praised the work of Lieut. General William S. Knudsen, attributing to him "most of the productive accomplishments we've gotten today". Knudsen, among those at the speakers' table, received three ovations from the assemblage.

Kan. Farmers Beat Weather in Race for Wheat Crop

Wichita, Kas.—(Wide World)—Kansas is about over its annual case of wheat nerves again.

Every year the state chews its nails from Pittsburgh to Goodland and has cold chills up its spine from Liberal to Atchison while waiting to see whether the farmer or the weather gets the crop.

It's all very much like that farmer who was seen dashing across a pasture just ahead of a pursuing bull. He hurled the fence just inches ahead of the animal and lay there panting.

"He derved near got you," commented a passerby.

"Yep," gasped the other, "he derved near does it every day."

In Kansas the weather derved near gets the wheat almost every year—but most of the time there's that saving margin.

Take this year for instance. Prospects in May were swell—a huge crop of 170,000,000 bushels was forecast, the state's third largest crop.

But the farmers kept their fingers crossed. And sure enough along came a wet June.

Rains began falling about the time wheat normally is ready to cut. It rained almost every day of the month.

Now rain can damage a field of ripe grain in many ways. Heavy wind and rain can knock down the grain, making harvest difficult and sometimes almost impossible. It can shatter the wheat heads, sending grain into the dirt. It keeps heavy farm machinery out of the fields while weeds grow tall and damaging in the fields.

And then presto, came July and warm sunshine. Fields dried out, farmers dashed into the fields like U. S. cavalry to the rescue and at the moment are sending the golden grain into bins and elevators.

BACK YARD GRILLE

If you enjoy a picnic or outdoor steak fry, why not erect a grille in the back yard or at some other comfortable and attractive spot. You can buy a skeleton metal framework at a very reasonable cost, and then by filling in around this framework with bricks or field stones, you have a first-class grille that is easily used, sanitary and safe. Sparks and flame cannot escape into the woods or grass adjoining. It is most sightly and adds a note of enjoyed living to the spot where it is constructed.

Subsidy Scheme in

Georgia, South Carolina and Florida and a prohibition against the fixing of ceilings on processed agricultural products which would act to prevent farmers from obtaining parity prices and above for their crops.

Meanwhile the rent control sector of the government's stand against inflation was beset today by strong pressure from organized and individual landlords in many sections of the country.

Threats from Seattle of a nationwide gathering of property owners to force rent ceilings upward reached the Office of Price Administration here simultaneously with news of a threatened "rent strike" by 200,000 CIO unionists in Detroit if rents were raised.

Attempted wholesale evictions were reported from New Haven, Conn., and to top it off, a suit challenging constitutionality of the whole price control act was on file in Mobile, Ala., where a property owner petitioned Federal court to block enforcement of the rent freeze in that area.

Top OPA rent officials were silent on the situation.

But aside from "almost innumerable" instances of OPA lawyers rushing to court to prevent evictions arising from rent ceiling disputes, an OPA spokesman indicated that the reaction to rent controls, now covering 75 cities, was hardly more bitter than anticipated.

Only two attacks on constitutional grounds—the Mobile case and one in South Bend, Ind.—are known to have been filed, the spokesman said. And only one landlord's hardship case has so far reached Washington on appeal from the local and regional offices. This came from Seattle.

So far nobody has used the three-judge emergency Court of Appeals authorized under the price control act, and appointed by Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone. It was indicated in Washington that OPA might seek to have the Mobile suit, filed by E. Lyle Hatter, transferred to this special tribunal.

In Seattle Floyd Oles, manager of the newly organized landlords' organization which met 1800 strong Thursday night, said he had secured representatives in 24 other cities where rents were cut back to levels of 15 months ago. Oles proposed a national protest meeting in Chicago July 20.

In the New Haven area, Justice of the Peace courts were swamped with summary process eviction actions instituted by landlords. The price act forbids eviction of a tenant for refusal to pay higher than the OPA-prescribed rent level.

Herbert S. MacDonald, chief rent attorney for the district, said:

"A great many landlords have suddenly found their tenants to be undesirable and maintaining a nuisance; even tenants who have been perfectly all right in the past. It is just another attempt to evade the law."

Will Hold Ogle County Farm Fair This Year

Secretary E. D. Landers of the Ogle County Fair association has announced that the 89th agricultural fair will be held on the dates previously announced, September 5, 6 and 7. Officials of the fair association have decided to proceed with the plans for the annual event in response to a popular demand of patrons of the fair. Officials of the association consider the annual fair which this year is being presented for the 89th time, is both educational and entertaining. It was also considered that many boys and girls, members of 4-H and F. F. A. groups have been working for many months on the projects to be entered into competition at the annual fair at Ogle, and it was not deemed fair to these youthful exhibitors to cancel the date which had been previously announced.

Present plans are to stage the first Ogle County Derby on Labor Day, Sept. 7, a running race of a mile and one-eighth with a purse sufficient to attract a good field of horses. The racing program will continue to meet the high standard of track events which have made the Ogle county fair at Ogle one of the finest in the central western states.

Associated Press Sports Writer
No one has accused James Emory Foxx of anything but a decorous debut in the National league. For days after he joined the Chicago Cubs the big slugger was as inconspicuous as a stick of gum.

But if the senior circuit expected "The Beast's" huge war club to remain silent indefinitely, it must know better now.

He set off a cannon—cracker on the Fourth of July with a three-run homer that knocked Mort Cooper out of the box after winning nine straight games; yesterday he made half of the Cubs' six hits and knocked in the deciding run in a 3 to 2 victory over the Boston Braves.

This game was a pitching duel between Claude Passeau and Jim Tobin with the unlucky Boston hurler helping to beat himself. In attempting to start a double play he threw wild and let Phil Cavaretta reach second, from where he scored on Foxx' single in the eighth.

Has Five Defeats
Passeau held the Braves to five hits in scoring his 14th triumph against five defeats. He has won more games than any other pitcher in either major league this season.

The Cincinnati Reds nosed out the Brooklyn Dodgers 2-1 in ten innings in a night game with Frank McCormick singling Bucky Walters home to decide the contest after the pitcher had opened with his second hit and advanced on an error.

Each team scored in the third in the only other interruption of a stirring pitching battle between Walters, who gained his tenth victory, and Kirby Higbe, who was charged with his sixth defeat against eight successes.

The defeat shaved a full game off the Dodgers' apparently ample 8½ game lead because the St. Louis Cardinals snatched a 3-2 victory in a ten-inning tussle with the New York Giants.

Cards Defeat Giants

With two out in the ninth, the Redbirds had been blanked on four hits by Bob Carpenter. Then Whitey Kurowski singled and pinch-hitter Walker Cooper doubled. Ace Adams was rushed to the mound and served another single to pinch-hitter Coaker Triplett for the two runs that tied the score.

In the tenth inning Terry Moore and Enos Slaughter singled and Stan Musial bunted down the third base line. Adams fielded the ball and threw to third for a force play—but Billy Werber wasn't there and the winning run came in unopposed.

In the American league the New York Yankees continued their mastery over the St. Louis Browns with a 5-2 victory—their eighth straight over St. Louis.

Mel Harder held the Philadelphia Athletics to four hits as the Cleveland Indians scored a 4-2 victory. Tex Hughson not only pitched seven-hit ball, but drove in three runs himself with a double and a single as the Boston Red Sox battered the Detroit Tigers 6-1.

Philadelphia - Pittsburgh and Chicago-Washington night games were postponed.

RAIDERS REGAIN THREE EYE LEAD

Beat Decatur Twice; Springfield Splits With Bees

(By The Associated Press)
Cedar Rapids vaulted back into the Three Eye league lead in convincing fashion last night.

The Raiders dealt a double defeat to the Decatur Commies, winning the opener, 3 to 0, and the nightcap, 8 to 7. Haas held Decatur to five hits in the seven-inning first game and was called on to halt a Commie uprising in the seventh inning of the second.

Cedar Rapids was leading, 8 to 3, going into the last of the sixth, only to have Decatur get two runs in the sixth and another two in the seventh to come within one run of catching up.

The Raiders thereby took over the lead from Springfield, which split a double header with the Evansville Bees.

The Bees won the seven-inning first game, 9 to 8, when Rex Carr slammed a two-run homer—his second of the contest—in the last inning. Springfield annexed the nightcap, 5 to 0, behind Stuart's three-hit pitching.

Madison and Waterloo remained in a deadlock for fourth place as they divided two games. The Blues took the first, 5 to 3, in seven innings, and Waterloo won the second, 9 to 8, scoring two runs in the last of the ninth after Madison had taken an 8 to 7 lead with a single tally in the first of the ninth.

Today's games: Madison at Waterloo, Evansville at Springfield, Cedar Rapids at Decatur.

PESKY, FLEMING LEAD MAJOR LEAGUE ROOKIES

By DILLON GRAHAM Wide World Sports Editor

New York—As major league baseball moves into the second half of its season, a pair of American league freshmen—Les Fleming of the Indians and John Pesky of the Red Sox—are out front in the competition for Rookie-of-the-Year honors.

The senior circuit has some standouts, too, but none can compare now to Fleming and Pesky, either as to individual exploits or as to their value to their teams.

Pesky, the young shortstop has tightened up the Boston inner defense considerably by his wide-ranging coverage and grounders that went for hits last year are being gobbled up and converted into outs now. He has been hitting well, too, but his blows have not been of too great value to a team that also boasts such pounders as Ted Williams and Bobby Doerr.

However, Fleming may have an edge over Pesky, for he is carrying the biggest hitting load for the Indians, out-batting and knocking in more runs than any of the other Clevelanders. He has more than replaced the ailing Hal Trosky of last year at first base.

While their averages are about the same—both in the league's upper bracket—Fleming has batted in upwards of 50 runs, more than twice Pesky's production, and has blasted eight homers.

Pesky is quite an improvement over the older veteran, Joe Cronin, in the field, but doesn't compare with his manager as a distance or clutch hitter.

Perhaps the best the National league has with which to challenge this pair are Stan Musial of the Cardinals and Willard Marshall of the Giants.

Musial, a ballyhoed recruit last spring, was off to a slow start but has come along and is now one of the loop's batting leaders. Marshall, overlooked at the Florida training camps, has turned out to be one of the most dangerous hitters in the league with men on base. Only a half dozen sockers have driven in more runs than this young outfielder.

Nanny Fernandez of the Braves has leveled off after a flashy start. Ray Lamanno has batted well and been a big help to the Reds behind the plate. Babe Barna of the Giants hasn't played in as many games as the others but has shown considerable prowess at the dish.

As for pitchers, the best of the first year men are old Ray Starr, who has won a flock of games for the Reds, and young Tex Hughson of the Red Sox. But, although this is Starr's first full year in the majors, he was up for several trials some years ago.

Atley Donald, Yankees — Kept nine hits scattered and himself singled in five-run opening blast against Browns.

Bucky Walters and Frank McCormick, Reds — Former pitched six-hit ball and made two safeties himself, scoring winning run on latter's single in tenth inning.

TOO BIG FOR ARMY; OK FOR CHGO. BEARS

Chicago, July 11.—(AP)—Clint Wager is 6 feet 6½ inches tall, which is just ¼ inch too much for the United States Army. But he's just the kind of a fellow the Chicago Bears want.

The National Football league champions today signed the former St. Mary's (Winona, Minn.) athlete for duty as end or tackle. He's 25 and weighs 224 pounds. The Army turned him down because of his size.

Sports Poll

By ORTMAN

Sports followers throughout the country will start going to the polls tomorrow to vote for their favorite college football players. The voting will continue for two weeks, until July 26, at which time the ballots will be tabulated and the boys receiving the most votes will oppose the Chicago Bears professional team in Soldiers Field, Aug. 25.

There are two boys whom Dixon fans especially want to see on this All Star team. They are Jerry Ankeny and Don Miller. Jerry was a quarterback at the University of Iowa for three years while Miller served as a halfback at the University of Wisconsin for the same length of time.

The polls are the mail boxes nearest to your home or office. The process of voting is very simple—merely write your name and address on a slip of paper together with the names of the stars for whom you are voting. Send this slip to the Dixon Evening Telegraph.

Here the votes will be counted and the number sent to the Chicago Tribune where it will be added to votes received from other newspapers.

The eleven boys who receive the highest number of votes will form the starting lineup against the Bears. However, if one of the top eleven is unable to report or is injured in practice, that player who received the second highest number for that position will be in the starting lineup.

After the game has started the coaches will change the players as they see fit. There will be approximately five players selected for each position on the team. In other words about 55 players will be elected.

Candidates for the All-Star squad are any college or university football players who were seniors during the 1941 season and who completed their eligibility. Jerry Ankeny and Don Miller both fill these requirements.

Other players from this section of the country who are eligible are: Ends: Paul Milosevich, Illinois; Raymond Kreick, Wisconsin; John Kovatch, Notre Dame; Chris Hanson, Bradley Tech; tackles: Nate Johnson, Illinois; Alf Bauman, Northwestern; Paul Lillis, Notre Dame; Jim Brutz and Ray Ebl, Notre Dame; Mike Hines, Notre Dame; Fred Tumpold, Bradley Tech; guards: George Zorich, Northwestern; Bus Heagy, Northwestern; Paul Kiefer, Northwestern; Bernie Crimmins, Notre Dame; Bob Maddock and Joe Laiber, Notre Dame.

Quarter backs: Levere Astroth, Illinois; Tom Farris, Wisconsin; Don Kruger, Northwestern; Dick Erditz, Northwestern; Bob Hargrave and Paul Pettin, Notre Dame; half backs: Ted Damos, Wisconsin; Bill DeCorrevont, Northwestern; Floyd Chambers, western; Don Hogan, Notre Dame; Steve Juzwick, Notre Dame; Paul McCall, Bradley Tech; fullbacks: Don Clawson, Northwestern; George Benson, Northwestern; and Chuck McNeill, Notre Dame.

However, this is just a small list of the hundreds who are eligible. Let's all vote! Pick eleven men; put their names and positions on a sheet of paper together with your name and address and send it in. Select two ends, two tackles, two guards, a center, a quarterback, two halfbacks and a fullback. But be sure the quarterback you vote for is Jerry Ankeny and one of the halfbacks is Don Miller.

Anyone may come to the Telegraph office, or call, and I will see that he gets some petitions which may be signed by twenty-five persons and will be counted as 25 votes for Miller and Ankeny.

SHORT STRETCHES

New York—Horsemen say it was the small Empire City track and its sharp turns and short stretches and not the 132 pounds he carried that beat Whirlaway when Tola Rose, lugging only 103 pounds, won the Butler Handicap.

TOUGH ON ARMS

Chicago—Cliff Melton of the Giants has thrown so many screwballs that his elbow is puffed and he can't straighten his arm. Neither can Carl Hubbell, who became famous as a screwballer, straighten his arm.

PLENTY OF VARIETY

Boston (AP)—Dan Collins, Boston College groundkeeper, has three sons in the armed forces—one in the air corps, one in the Navy and the other in the coast artillery.

Denver (AP)—Bill Jelliffe, professional at the Lakewood course west of Denver, took a fat 5 on a par three hole, yet he set a new course record of 64, eight under par.

EXCEPT FOR HIS MEMORIES, GROVE HAS LEFT BALL BEHIND

Wide World Features

Lonaconing, Md.—Baseball no longer sends a galloping fever through this town tucked away in a pretty green valley.

Even the town's amateur team of last year has folded. You might even disparage the Boston Red Sox—and survive. This is a change as cataclysmic as nature's job in fashioning the mountains of Western Maryland some yesterdays ago, but the reason is simple.

Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove is home during the baseball wars for the first time in 23 years, and this pitcher who ranks among the greatest of all time is content in retirement.

"Haven't even had a baseball in my hand, except for those in the show window there," said he with a wave of his cigar.

The show window, with 247 balls from his standout victories in 411 diamond triumphs, fronts a hall with a pool table and three bowling alleys designated simply as "Lefty's Place." Adjoining it is a former saloon, almost empty save for a card table and a watermelon in a little icebox "for the womenfolk when they come in to play Michigan tonight."

Fishes And Hunts

Lefty is at the pool hall occasionally, but more likely tending his tomatoes, potatoes, corn peas and grapes with the same careful study he once devoted to spotting a batter's weaknesses.

Still more likely he's off fishing, or in season hunting with his two great affectionate dogs, King Alfred and Jif Alfonso.

"It feels great," said Lefty of retirement after 23 years in which "I give them all I had and didn't ask for no corners. I don't have to go through all that traveling. Far as I can see now, I'm going to stay away from baseball, but maybe next year I'll feel a little different."

He says he hasn't seen a ball game or listened to two innings of one since he stepped out last December from the Red Sox, and declares even the 2,400 townsfolk (he waves like some angular windmill with "Hi, Bill, Lo, Tom" as he strides through his home town) don't pay much attention to the game now that he's not playing.

Joe Sewell Toughest

But the scores are posted each night in the pool room and Lefty's pennant choices are the Yankees "who've got the rest of the league scared," and Brooklyn.

For his money, Joe Sewell, one-time Cleveland shortstop, was the toughest batter he ever faced, and Lefty's greatest thrill was hanging up his 300th major league victory last July 25 against Cleveland.

Now, 42 and with graying hair, Lefty finds baseball "takes too much outta you," and he turned down a managerial nibble from Trenton of the Interstate League because he thinks the wartime future of the minors "is a little too erratic." But his weight is down to 202, against playing weight last year of 215, "because working out in a garden under a hot sun keeps you in condition." His garden runs straight uphill in semi-terraced plots, and from the top of his acre or so you can look right over his yellow frame house to the clouds and green hills on the other side of the valley.

Son Pitches, Too

He speaks with pride of his daughter, Ethel Doris, who is studying voice, and his son, Bob, at Washington College, Md. Bob pitches (right handed) and in his freshman year hurled 18 innings, allowing only five hits and no runs.

Lefty has never seen him pitch a college game, but admits Bob "has some pretty good stuff."

Baseball is stamped all over the pool hall with pictures, and his comfortable house with more pictures—reminders of years with the Baltimore Orioles, the Athletics and World Series and the Red Sox.

Corp. Ward Beaten by Bill Welch

Corp. Abbott Is Favored to Take Vacated Title

Spokane, Wash., July 11.—(AP)—A new Western Amateur golf champion was striding the fairways of the Manito course today, doomed to remain unidentified until the finals are finished Sunday afternoon.

The defending titleholder, Corp. Marvin Ward, was eliminated yesterday, and fighting it out today over 36-hole semi-finals were the present National Public Links champion, Bill Welch two former wearers of the public links crown and an ex-Walker Cup star.

Welch, Houston, Tex., mechanic, who won the championship here a year ago, knocked Ward out of competition in the quarter-finals, 2 up. It wasn't exactly unexpected because Ward bobbed up in a bad slump after winning the qualifying medal and was lucky to face only average opposition in the first three rounds of match play.

He scrambled to an impressive one-under-par score yesterday but it wasn't good enough to match Welch's 69, three under.

When Welch won he ousted not only the holder of the big National Amateur title but the winner of the Western crown the last two years.

In today's first semi-final, Welch compared shots with Bruce McCormick, Los Angeles fireman who was National Public Links leader in 1937 and a quarter finalist in last year's National Amateur.

McCormick was still in the running by virtue of a victory over Skee Riegel, Glendale, 3 and 2 yesterday.

The other 36-holer brought together Corp. Pat Abbott of Denver, 1936 Public top man, and Harry Givan of Seattle, a member of the 1937 American Walker Cup squad.

Abbott, who has shot the best golf in the tournament, defeated Marsh Hammond, Spokane, 4 and 3, while Givan blasted the hopes of Wilford Wehrle, ranking ace from Racine, Wis. 5 and 4.

There was little to choose from between the semi-finalists although, from the week of play, Abbott looked like the best bet.

NAVY SEEKS THOUSAND SEAGOING SCHOONERS

By NEA Service

Washington — United States Navy seeks an additional 1000 privately-owned seagoing yachts needed for patrol duty.

More than 1200 already have been taken over, either purchased outright or loaned.

More than 10,000 yachtsmen and more than 6000 privately-owned boats are in the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Vice Admiral R. R. Waesche, commandant of the Coast Guard, is recruiting the auxiliary patrol.

WHAT'S YOUR NAME?

If your name is Abercrombie, Butterfield, Carruthers, Dangerfield, Effingham, or anything else right down the alphabet exclusive of "M", you apparently haven't got a chance to be this year's National league run-batting champion.

With about one-third of the season completed, the four leading men in the RBI col. in baseball's senior loop are Mize, McCormick, Medwick, and Marshall.

MILE RECORD BROKE AGAIN

Stockholm, Sweden, July 11

—(AP)—That 4:06.2 clocking for the mile which Gunder Haegg established just eight days ago already has been equalled.

Arne Andersson, who was second to Haegg on July 2, last night was clocked at the same figure.

In the race in which Haegg set the present unofficial world mark, Andersson galloped the distance in 4:06.4 to equal Sydney Wooderson's accepted record that had stood since 1937.

Both Anderson and Haegg, who also has times that surpass the listed world records in the 1,500 meter and two-mile run, have been invited to compete in the United States next winter by Dan J. Ferris of the National A. A. U.

Lumber, Cement, Asphalt Become Scarce Items

Country Will Have to Scrape for Building Materials

Washington—(Wide World)—The nation's builders are going to be scraping for materials—even on military jobs.

Such things as lumber, cement and asphalt are being added to the future list of scarce goods in builders' plans, alongside such metals—previous items as plumbing, guttering and piping.

That is the report of S. Morris Livingston, commerce department specialist on construction.

Wood: Although lumber production has been increasing in recent months, new wartime needs outside the building industry have lifted the demand for wood considerably.

The need for lumber in building is no greater than last year, Livingston reports, but requirements for box and crate material is expected almost to double.

Although demand has been particularly heavy for the softwoods used in construction, a greater call for hardwood is expected, too.

Wood Bodies for Trucks

Thus, the army recently decided to build wood bodies for all cargo trucks, a move expected to require nearly 1,000,000 feet of lumber a day. Earlier, the army decided to order a large number of wooden, double-deck beds, using gum lumber.

Other military programs call for quantities of lumber for new cantonments, barges and aircraft, the commerce department says.

Summer is the busy season in the lumber industry, and it is predicted that, despite handicaps in manpower and machinery, the production rate will reach three billion feet at month in July.

Cement: Although the cement mills were still well below capacity production in April and May, large military demands in the last eight months of 1942 are expected to tax the industry.

"Since such demand has never before existed," Livingston observes, "it is not known how much the industry could produce if every mill were given sufficient orders to call forth maximum output. But it is hardly likely that the capacity output of the industry will suffice for all needs."

Lack of Transportation

Asphalt: The same troubles which are causing eastern motorists to go without gasoline—"X" card or no "X" card—affect the asphalt supply. There have been some restrictions on refinery output, but the major difficulty is the lack of tank-cars to carry the stuff.

Use of asphalt in road construction and maintenance has been curtailed drastically in the eastern states.

Doing without: "It is evident," Livingston concludes, "that the problem of materials has gone beyond the mere elimination or substitution for certain critical items. Reinforced concrete can often replace structural steel in bridges and buildings. Timber structures can at times be substituted for either steel or concrete. But when both cement and lumber are scarce, there is no satisfactory alternate."

Harrisburg, Pa.—(AP)—Newspaper advertising must be continued if America is to keep its free press in wartime, J. Howard Pew, president of the Sun Oil company, declared today.

In a letter to the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' association, Pew said America has the "most competent press in the world" because of its advertising revenue "which," reflecting the activities of our system of free competitive enterprise, gives to our press so broad a basis of economic support that it can afford and can dare to be independent.

"Without such a broad foundation of economic support our press would be dependent on the favors of politics and the subsidies of government, like practically all the press of continental Europe," he said.

Every person holding a War Ration Book can get a special allotment of not more than five pounds of sugar a year for home canning or preserving fresh fruits and vegetables for home consumption.

In a single month, 200 departments in Wierton, W. Va., steel plant broke War Production Drive records.

Northwestern in Court Fight to Take Up Tracks

Chicago, July 11—(AP)—A suit for an injunction to restrain the Illinois Commerce Commission and other defendants from interfering with the removal of 28 miles of track between Sycamore and Caladonia, Ill., was filed in federal court yesterday by Charles M. Thomson, trustee of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad.

The suit charged that the road had approval from the Interstate Commerce Commission and the U. S. District Court for removal of the track from the branch which is not in use.

It said that the road sought the removal of the unused tracks because of the acute need for rails resulting from President Roosevelt's order halting the manufacture of rails and an urgent requirement for new trackage in army camps, ordnance plants and other war projects.

Named defendants were members of the state Commerce Commission, Attorney General George F. Barrett, State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney of Cook county, State's Attorney Ross Mellett of DeKalb county, Verne Barnes, secretary of the Belvidere Chamber of Commerce, and C. S. Bather, an associate of the Belvidere Chamber of Commerce.

The suit charged that Bather and Barnes had appeared before the state commission and obtained a restraining order pending a hearing by that body.

W. S. C. S.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church met on Thursday, July 2 at the church. The president, being unable to be present, the vice-president, Mrs. Blanche Durkes, was in charge. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Margery Howard, the theme being, "The Church." The program topic for the day was, "A Time of Preparation,"—a study of ways and means for the women's work of the local church; the leader, Mrs. Ruth Kelley. She presented the chapter from the study book concerning various lines of activity. Mrs. Sunday gave a short talk on a question assigned by the leader, "How Can Our Society Help the Church and the Pastor this Year?" This being the first W. S. C. S. meeting of the new church year, the topic seemed most appropriate. Several suggestions were made and discussed, bringing out various ideas on the subject.

After refreshments were served by the hostess committee, Bessie Turner, Margery Howard, Evalyn Shoemaker, Dorothy Hatch and Ruth Butler, the meeting adjourned to the church grounds, where a tour of observation was made to decide as to work needed there. Because of the frequent rains this season, all vegetation has increased rapidly, particularly the weeds. It was decided to plan for a "clean-up, trim-up, weed-up" day very soon, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bratton and Mrs. Elizabeth Sunday were appointed as a church-yard committee to make the arrangements. Meeting adjourned. Later: The church yard committee met and selected Tuesday morning as the time to start work, and the announcement was so made at the Sunday morning service. A good number of workers gathered at the church at 8 o'clock that morning with rakes, sickles, pruning shears, lawnmowers, etc., and soon the church grounds were buzzing with activity. By noon there was considerable change in the appearance of the grounds, and working periods again on Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning have added still more improvement. It is hoped that by the end of the week they will be in the best of condition. It is really surprising how much may be accomplished in a short time through the united efforts of a group of interested workers. During these "get-togethers" of the past week, the committee have heard many fine suggestions for the development and use of the church grounds, which they feel sure would meet the approval of every one.

Dr. Baker Enlists

Franklin Grove folks will regret to learn of Dr. Baker leaving as he had been in many homes here.

Gone to Wyoming

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Hussey and daughter Dotty left Wednesday noon by train for Sheridan, Wyoming, where they will visit in the home of their daughter and sister, Mrs. Clifford Carroll and family.
